

honorate Lewis and Clark trek

(Daily News photo by Karen Ratay-Green)

Local historian and Lewis and Clark enthusiast Don Riddle (above) demonstrates a wooden flute he made for the Lewis and Clark trunk. It's probably no surprise that the educational committee (a group of about eight teachers) created this unique, hands-on teaching tool. The trunk (left) will travel the state allowing students to learn about the journey by examining the contents. A curriculum developed by the national Lewis and Clark Foundation travels with the trunk offering teachers suggestions for lessons plans and activities. Pictured here are (from left to right) Arrow Rock residents Mike Duncan, Mary Duncan, and Don Riddle and Mary Riddle from Brunswick. The four members of the committee who built the trunk and assembled much of its contents.

assemble a large scale project, the group is expecting the trunks to be well received. Reservations for the trunks are already being made.

The trunks can be reserved for a two week period. For more information about the Lewis and Clark trunks, contact Mary or Mike Duncan at 837-3398.

n for the
s the orga-
achers for
l Clark.
for infor-
aid former
educators
resources to